Wienhorst Attends Eastman

Dr. Wienhorst received his Ph. D. degree from Eastman School of Music and has studied composition with Nadia Boulanger, Harald Genzmer, Leo Sowerby, Bernard Rogers, and Howard Hanson.

Major orchestras and choirs throughout the United States and Europe have performed his works.

Dr. Wienhorst is presently completing a work for the Christian Theological Seminary. The seminary chorus and Indianapolis Symphony will present the work on April 13.

His "Mats for Percussion Ensemble and Choir" will be performed by the Eastman Polyphonic Choir and Percussion

Dr. C.A. Swenson To Speak Tues.

He will discuss "Physics at Low Temperatures" at 7:30 p.m. in the conference room of the Student Memorial Union.

Dr. Swenson, author of 52 papers in the area of physics, has also been an instructor at Harvard University and at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

He has his B. S. degree from Harvard and his Ph.D. from Oxford University, England.

'Celebrating Life Of World' Is Theme For Bonhoeffer Festival

"World Come of Age," a quote of Christian martyr Dietrich Bonhoeffer, is the topic of this year's convocation series. In commemoration of the 21st anniversary of his death, Wartburg College will celebrate a Bonhoeffer Festival during the month of February, according to Chaplain H. W. Diers.

Theme for the festival will be "Celebrating the Life of the World." Concentration will be on the secular or worldly Christianity that Bonhoeffer emphasized. "Is there a place left for God?" will be one of the questions to be probed.

Bonhoeffer, a native German, was living in the United States until the advent of World War II. He then decided to return to Germany and actively oppose Hitler.

Bonhoeffer Is Imprisoned

He took part in a plot to execute the dictator, which did not succeed, and was imprisoned. When his part in the plot was revealed, he was executed on April 9, 1945.

Bonhoeffer has become known as a famous Lutheran theologian through his "Letters and Papers from Prison" and other theological books.

As background for the circumstances of Bonhoeffer's martyrdom, "Judgment at Nuremberg" will be shown next Friday at 8 p.m. in the Chapel-auditorium. Students will be admitted free by special arrangement with United Artists.

Spencer Tracy and Burt Lancaster star in the famous film about the Nazi war trials.

Drama To Be Presented

A biographical drama, "Cup of Trembling," will be presented by the Wartburg Players Feb. 18 - 20 at 8 p.m. in the Chapel-auditorium.

Senior Roger Baumgardner will play the lead as Dietrich Bonhoeffer. The play is directed by John Gill, Speech Department.

Three convocation addresses will be given by the Rev. John Lee Smith of Cornell University. He will speak Feb. 22, 23 and 24.

His addresses will deal with secular society, the place of worship in the world and the mission of the Church in the world.

Film To Be Shown

An English Department film, "Room at the Top," will be shown at 4 and 7 p.m. Feb. 22 in the Chapel-auditorium. An English film based on a John Baine novel, it portrays a man's tensions between his business and the woman he loves.

March meetings for several organizations will correspond with Bonhoeffer's teachings as applied to their interests, according to Chaplain H. W. Diers.

A brochure and eight pages of excerpts from Bonhoeffer's "Letters and Papers from Prison" will be placed in each student's mail box to further acquaint students with his teachings and the activities of the festival.

Mista To Receive Ph. D. In P.E.

Miss Nancy Mista of Wartburg's Physical Education Department will receive her Ph.D. in Physical Education from the University of Iowa on Feb. 5.

Miss Mista's thesis was on the attitudes of college women toward their high school physical education program.

Miss Mista received her B.A. from Wartburg, her M.A. from Colorado State College at Greeley, Colo. Miss Mista has been on the Wartburg faculty since 1960.

Briner To Teach English Next Fall

Briner

K. D. Briner, a Wartburg graduate, has been named an instructor in English for next fall, according to Dr. John O. Chellevoid, dean of faculty.

Briner is currently an instructor in English at the University of Nebraska, where he is also a Ph.D. candidate. He received his M.A. here in 1964. Briner was also an NDEA Fellow at the University.

A holder of a National Merit Scholarship and a General Motors National Scholarship while at Wartburg, Briner graduated magna cum laude in 1961.

Funeral Services To Be Held Sun.

Services will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. in Zion Lutheran Church in Jubilee for Mrs. Richard Bauer Buchsteiner, 22, who died Thursday afternoon at the home of her parents, following oral surgery; burial will be in the church cemetery.

Mrs. Richard Buchsteiner, Jesup, known at Wartburg as Maxine Bauer, graduated in 1964 with a Social Work major. She was a member of the Homecoming court in 1963.

Maxine was married to Dick Buchsteiner, Student Body President, in 1964. Dick is presently a student at Wartburg Seminary, Dubuque.

Memorials may be given to the Wartburg College Becker Hall of Science fund.

Krakov Choir, Orchestra Appear In Feb. Artist Series

Poland's famed Krakow Choir and Orchestra will appear here Feb. 13 in Knights Gymnasium.

This program, the fourth of five programs scheduled for the season under the auspices of the Wartburg College Artist Series, will begin at 8 p.m. The appearance is part of the organization's first American tour.

The twenty voice chorus and thirty orchestral players under the direction of Andrzej Markowski will perform a repertoire of classical and modern music featuring instrumental and vocal soloists.

After its appearance at the Venice Festival in 1963, only four years after its formation, the New York "Times" acclaimed, "This group must be given first place in the performing department."

Markowski, a graduate of the Conservatory of Warsaw, organized the group after his appointment as conductor of the Krakow Philharmonic in 1959.

He has made frequent appearances as guest conductor in several European countries including Italy, Germany, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Belgium and Holland. This will be his first appearance in America.

Krakov Choir and Orchestra will appear here in the fourth Artist Series of the season. They will perform on Feb. 13 at 8 p.m. in Knights Gymnasium, according to Dr. A. W. Swensen, Artist Series Chairman.

Clutch Covers Tighter

A group of students is seated around a table in the Den. The conversation comes around to the coming elections and the various candidates. Then the bomb falls -- Joe Smith's name is mentioned. The general reaction is one of complete disfavor. Comments like, "What a creep!" arise from the group.

Why are we so quick to criticize, so ready to judge? Who are we to call a person good or bad, right or wrong? If we think about it, we can readily see that we aren't in a position to make such decisions about other people.

So why do we do it? We do it because we are completely wrapped up in ourselves. We think that no one has the problems we do. We don't stop to think that other people have problems. Let's get back to Joe Smith. He is an average human being, but he has problems. These problems cause him to act the way he does. For example, you probably realize that bullies are not usually what they appear to be. Frequently they are suffering from horrible feelings of insecurity.

Wants To Be Understood

So Joe just wants to be understood. But everyone is so wrapped up in himself that he doesn't care. He just sees the surface actions of Joe and condemns him for it.

We all want to be understood and accepted, but we don't want to have to understand or accept anyone else for what he is.

The Trumpet recently published an editorial ribbing the undependability of people in general. But as usual the students were so wrapped up in themselves that everyone thought of someone else whom the editorial fit. They became adept at pointing fingers. But what they didn't think of is that they were so busy pointing that finger, there were three other fingers pointing right back at themselves. John thought the editorial fit Jim perfectly. Jim thought it fit John. But, ironically enough, it fit both of them. They were just too wrapped up in themselves to see the real meaning.

Life Revolves Around Self

Everything in life must revolve around ourselves. We are the most important beings. We can't understand anyone else because we haven't experienced the same things or even thought the same thoughts. Each individual IS an individual. He wants to be understood without having to do anything in return. We are just too wrapped up in ourselves.

So what is the purpose of this editorial? Maybe there isn't any. Each reader is going to stay in his own shell. Maybe some will try to be more tolerant of other people for a while. But most will merely clutch the covers a little tighter.

Students Sound Off

By MARY HJERMSTAD

Who has the more difficult job—President Johnson or Mrs. Ghandi?

Carolyn Losee, Freshman

"That would be hard to say because of the situation in Vietnam now and the situation in India with the famine.

"Mrs. Ghandi might have a more difficult position because she is a woman. Her ideas might not be regarded as being equal to a man's. Of course, the situation in India is a lot worse than the situation in the U. S. Therefore, I do think that Mrs. Ghandi has a harder job."

Ed Paulson, Senior

"Mrs. Ghandi, because of India's poverty. This has always been a problem. Communism is a threat, and she must satisfy people of diverse classes."

Jim Thompson, Senior

"They both have very influential positions; both jobs are difficult. But I think that President Johnson has the more difficult position. He probably has more influence in world affairs, although Mrs. Ghandi will have a great and immediate influence in Asia."

Dave Burrack, Senior

"I think I'd say Johnson, mainly because of the more complex social organization of the country and the higher level of technology. He has to maintain a position of world leadership and try to keep a balance of power in the world."

GII Refugee Reminisces

By DEAN KRUCKEBERG

Muff writes a humor column for a while and gets invited to live in Gamma House; me, I get kicked out of Grossmann II. By the end of the semester, I was as popular on GII as Dean Oppermann at a North Hall beer party.

What really hurt my popularity was when a couple of sophomores walked into old 220 and found me reading what was apparently a Playboy magazine. One of the sophs, becoming rather suspicious when I didn't com to the fold-out, snatched the Playboy from my hands and exposed a carefully-concealed history book. I think they also resented it when I wouldn't take my turn as croupier at the roulette table.

There are various methods of seeking revenge on GII. The guys can recommend dates for the Grossmann hayride party, flush all the toilets when I take my monthly shower, or put a chunk of ice in my bed at 2:00 in the morning.

What I resented most were the organized protest riots outside my door. Everyone had his own voodoo doll of me. Maybe that explains why I'm the first guy in the history of Wartburg College to dislocate his big toe running into a gymnasium wall.

I can't say that the guys on GII aren't friendly. They always smiled as they kicked me in the shins. They still think I'm responsible for having the homecoming float built in conjunction with Wartburg Hall.

Every morning I would find posted on my door, "Yankee, Go Home." Good grief, Minnesota isn't that far north! The student janitor always got mad when I brushed my teeth at the drinking fountain. He said he didn't mind that so much, but where did I get that black tooth paste.

I'm going to like living on Grossmann I. I like getting up with the sun in my eyes. (Of course, the room is on the west side of the hall.)

I don't know about that Wartburg Hall. Everytime I find occasion to go into it, I receive more hate-stares than a Jewish Negro at a Ku Klux Klan meeting. I wonder if they've been talking to the boys on GII. . . Now I know what Daniel felt like, going into the lion's den.

I sure hope that I can keep this column. The pay is lousy, but every time I walk beneath Wartburg Hall, I get enough vegetables thrown at me to make a Sunday night dinner.

I liked Muff's idea of calling Hebron Hall "Animal Farm." I was thinking we could call Wartburg Hall "The House of the Rising Sun." It does lie on the east side of campus.

Those of us too scared to cut the first convo of the semester read an interesting little item in the bulletin. And I quote: "NOTICE: Students are not to be taken to the hospital without proper clearance from the school nurse, Rohlf Memorial Clinic, or your respective Dean." I can see myself lying in Oppie's office during lunch hour after being hit by the 12 noon Waverly freight train. With my luck, he'd probably have a 1 p.m. appointment, too.

I think the profs were behind the "cigarettes in the den" bit all along. If they can't get a guy on semesters, there's always lung cancer.

There is some doubt as to whether I can keep this job as humor columnist. If those few among you whom I have insulted in this column would like to see me continue, please write: Dept. of Sanitation, % Wartburg Trumpet, Wartburg College. Your support will be appreciated.

Pham Khac Rau Speaks On Vietnam Issue

By MARY KROHLOW

"The situation in Vietnam is very confusing, not only for you foreigners, but also for us Vietnamese," commented Pham Khac Rau in a lecture on the Vietnam situation Wednesday.

Rau is a former Ambassador of the South Vietnamese Embassy. A native of North Vietnam, Rau was driven out by the Communist advance, thereby attaining first-hand knowledge of the situation.

In 1930 the Communist bloc set up the Communist Party in Vietnam. North Vietnam President Ho Chi Minh intends to set up a dictatorship of the proletariat, which is the general aim of communism, according to Rau.

Communism, according to Rau.

Communist propaganda claims that the purpose of Americans in South Vietnam is to set it up as a base in a manner similar to that of the French colonialists.

"I can assure you that the Vietnamese people in the South are not blind," Rau said in an attempt to placate the students.

The American GI's are trying to build up Vietnam. The bad incidents, which naturally receive more publicity, are few, according to Rau.

"Generally, the Vietnamese are grateful for the hand received from the Americans," he added.

Vietnamese Receive Help

Currently, the South Vietnamese are receiving help from over 40 countries.

The majority of Rau's lecture dealt with the problem of actual Communist indoctrination among the Vietnamese.

"The people in South Vietnam could never accept Communist domination," according to Rau. "They want to preserve their freedom. They want their family life. They would never accept communism."

Position Is Idealistic

Rau's position seems to be a somewhat idealistic one. He does not want to take any drastic measures such as the bombing of Hanoi; he claims that it has no place in such an unconventional war.

"The main thing to do in South Vietnam is to bring the truth to them," he said. Force is not the answer. The only solution lies in spreading the truth about the nature of communism.

Many Vietnamese peasants do not even realize that it is communism that they are fighting or should be fighting. This is where Rau seems to think the Americans come in. We should spread the truth.

In his own words, "What we need is moral support."

Must Be Won In Heart

"This war can't be won on a battlefield; it must be won in the hearts of the countrymen."

The South Vietnamese government realizes the nature of communism and will do anything in its power to fight it.

Rau is very anxious for his country: "We have to fight; there is no other way."

He also feels that if the farmers knew what was going on, they would never go along with it. However, so far the communists have been able to hide their identity quite successfully, he added.

In commenting on talk of Americans moving out, Rau said, "The Vietnamese are upset by this talk."

Would Be Tragedy

If the Americans were to move out, it would be a "great tragedy."

"With Americans out of Vietnam, the Communists will take over South Vietnam," he continued. In addition, once South Vietnam is lost, Cambodia, Thailand, Laos and the whole Far East will fall.

In the words of Rau, "More than Vietnam is at stake in Vietnam."

Talks Not Appropriate

Rau feels that peace talks would not be appropriate. He added that the war will last a long time.

Thus, we must continue with this confusing and unconventional war in Vietnam to prevent the Communists from taking over Vietnam and the entire Far East.

The problem is, according to Rau, that the only way it can be won is "in the hearts of the countrymen," and that is a tedious task.

Pham Khac Rau, former Ambassador of South Vietnam, spoke to students in Buhr Lounge Wednesday. He informed students of the opinions of the Vietnamese people.

Wartburg faculty and staff have also been a great contributing factor in the financing of the new science hall, according to Hal C. Kestler, Director of Community Relations, Development Department.

"In the four years since the drive first began the Wartburg College family has responded in a tremendous way," said Mr. Kestler.

In addition to $50,000 raised three years ago, since September the faculty and staff have contributed $2,525 in the areas of initial, major and special gifts and has donated $5,831.

Bid letting for the science hall will begin on Feb. 15 with a meeting in the television room of the Student Union. Contracts to be let that day are for electric, general, mechanical and laboratory equipment.

Inside Senate

Senate Reacts On Societies

By SUE KELL

The "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" does not attend Wartburg College. At the present time there are no national fraternities and sororities on campus.

Honorary fraternities, such as Alpha Chi and Pi Sigma, a club open to all Wartburg women, have been allowed. Officially, Gamma, Beta and the other off-campus houses are only residence halls.

Should Wartburg have societies? The question was raised by students who suggested that such societies would improve Wartburg social life. Senate reactions were varied.

"It would add variety to our social life," a senator said. Another countered, "Our campus is too small. About 13 to 1400 students doesn't seem enough. Now a student can find his own place, his own clique." Other senators felt size was a factor.

"Societies might label students according to class; the campus would be divided."

Is there a need for societies?

"We don't need it now. It is useful on a large campus. It might affect the small college atmosphere. The small housing units, now being planned, might accomplish this same purpose," according to one senator.

Are the off-campus houses pseudo-fraternities? It is an unresolved question.

Senate voted to drop the matter for the present. It could be revived.

Psychological counseling, beyond the campus, was another topic. The Cedar Valley Health Center has served Wartburg students for the past several years, charging a nominal fee, according to the ability to pay. Wartburg has contributed over $300 annually to the center in recent years. The center has proposed a contract agreement with Wartburg. One dollar a semester would be added to tuition.

St. Olaf and Luther have similar arrangements. Senate will hear opinions of those directly involved, such as Dr. Robert Dell, before voting. The proposal was presented to the president's cabinet and referred to the senate.

During the discussion the proposal was compared to an insurance policy. Insurance is not always used, but good to have around.

Think about the four-four-one program passed this week by the faculty. Senate will discuss this issue next week.

Ideas, controversial or otherwise, can now be put on the Public Opinion Bulletin Board. This suggestion was okayed by the senators. The material on the board would need Dean Oppermann's signature. This idea has added spice to other campuses. This might prevent a re-run of the Playboy fiasco.

Elections are coming up. If the president's chair doesn't fit, a senator's might. See you at the next senate meeting.

Wartburg Snaps Losing Streak; Hits Century Mark; Beats Winona

Wartburg snapped its three game losing streak as it out-paced Winona State of Minnesota, 100 - 84, hitting the century mark for the second time this year. While both teams were able to compile a torrid shooting percentage, Winona State was plagued throughout the game with costly bad passes. At the same time the Knights had little trouble foiling the Winona full - court and three - quarter - court press. In the early stages of the game Winona jumped off to an early lead on the driving lay - ups of Dave Meisner, who finished the night with 25 points to top all players and some fine outside shooting. The Knights had no trouble coming back to take the lead.

Buzz Commends Team
Head basketball coach "Buzz" Levick commended his teams as a unit saying, "When the boys shoot and play so well I can hardly mention any individual performance."

"Denny Bowman played his best offensive game of the year," Levick commented concerning his 6' 1" guard who added 16 points to the Knight cause.

Winona was seemingly unaware of John Hearn's scoring prowess. Hearn broke the twenty mark for the first time in several games as he scored 22 to lead the Knights.

Syverson Nabs 17 Points
Lowell Syverson was the third of the Knight starters in double figures as he tabulated 17 points and speared innumerable rebounds.

"The fine relief help from the bench was the determining factor. We were able to rest every starter in the first half," Levick said.

Joe Kaufman, junior forward, and Steve Beckman, junior guard, came off the bench to keep the Knights moving. Kaufman scored 16 points while only in the game for about 20 minutes.

"Palmer Clements," Levick said, "played quite well and went 4 for 4 from the charity line at a crucial stage of the game." Clements made his debut Tuesday night because he was ineligible the first semester.

Levick regarded tonight's opponents, the Buena Vista Beavers, highly in view of their recent performances. "Our victory over the Beavers the first time was rather spotty. We played in spurts and built up a lead that they were not able to overcome."

Knights Over-run Simpson
Wartburg overcame an early three point deficit to power their way past luckless Simpson 80-61, Friday night.

Simpson jumped off to a 10-7 lead in the opening minutes on the fine outside shooting of Sig Wood, who copped scoring honors for the evening with 19 points.

Center Lowell Syverson and guard Denny Bowman kept Wartburg within striking distance. Syverson hit four field-goals at critical times in the first half, but was shut-out from the field in the final stanza.

Reserve forward Joe Kaufman set the scoring pace for the Knights with 16 points. Kaufman's scoring came on a series of driving lay-ups as well as follow through shots.

Wartburg started the game in a man to man defense, but coach Buzz Levick soon shifted to a zone. In the second half the Knight defense was especially tenacious.

Palmer Clements, reserve center, did an outstanding job while Syverson was being rested. Clements popped in 9 points and picked off several rebounds.

One of the major factors in the victory was the ability of the Knight bench to keep up the pace while the starters were resting. At the same time the Redmen were severely handicapped when Wood and guard Phil Wooderson were out of action.

Nobody Asked Me, But . . .

Welcome To Fan Club

By BILL GLITZ

Do you thrill to the story of Cinderella? Can you get ecstatic over Horatio Alger? Does Ben Franklin's life of determined success thrill you? Do you become paralyzed to the TV screen in a rags to riches melodrama? Do you put your two dollars on a 50-1 shot at Arlington? Do you root for the Chicago Cubs?

Glitz

If you can answer yes to all of these questions welcome to the Steve Beckman fan club.

Steve Beckman looks like Wartburg's walking answer to anemia. He's a shade lighter than pale. The only thing big about him are his feet and his nose. When he speaks, he sounds like a perpetual apology. He'll say something like, "two plustwois four, but you better check me out that."

When I first saw Steve performing for the freshman team, I wondered whether the basketball might not dribble him up court. I checked the bench for attending physicians. I prayed no one would open the door to Knights Gym--Steve might have been blown onto the stage. When he went to the free throw line, I wondered who was going to help him shoot the ball fifteen feet. I was amazed that he even survived being fouled. Or survived one season.

Today, Steve Beckman is helping Coach Levick's quintet survive. He's added a little weight--two or three pounds. But that hasn't been the difference. Steve Beckman is now the Knights' key ballplayer because he is a money ballplayer.

Remember the Penn ballgame? Wartburg down by fifteen to twenty points with about five minutes to go. Enter Steve Beckman. Wartburg comes within seven points. Exit Steve Beckman. Penn wins going away. This is what Steve means to Wartburg. He's a (if you'll pardon the old sports cliché) sparkplug. He's at his best under pressure.

Steve leads Wartburg in shooting percentage. Now, remember, people, this guy's not getting the cripple rebound shots or the five foot jumper. He's zeroing in from twenty to thirty feet most of the time. And when he sends the ball toward the hoop it has a better than fifty-fifty chance of going in.

But there are other aspects of number 12 that make him a money ballplayer besides his shooting. Steve Beckman is a cool head. When Steve isn't busy gunning in jumpers or playing a tough game of defense, he can usually be seen trying to strike up a friendship with the officials. Steve is the diplomat on the Wartburg ballclub. He goes out of his way to win the favor of the officials.

At Augsburg Steve went on an uncontrollable rampage when he had the audacity to scream at the official, "Sir, I believe that gentleman travelled with the ball." The ref must have known Steve. He realized that coming from him that was utter disrespect. Steve Beckman questioning an official. Beckman got saddled with one of the politest technical fouls in the history of basketball.

Steve also has another quality that makes him my type of ballplayer. Steve plays the game because he enjoys it. Just watch him during a game. He's having a great time out there. This is what he loves to do. It wouldn't take a scholarship or thoughts of personal prestige to bring him onto the court. He plays basketball because he has fun doing it. And any time it's fun, it's easier to work at. And Steve Beckman works at it.

Yes sir, he's my kind of ballplayer.

P. S. Memo to the music department. Could we please gather a group of your musicians together for a pep band for ALL the basketball games? Knights Gym was like a morgue on Tuesday night. Please, gentlemen.

Knights Start Track Practice ; 30 Report To Coach Menage

Track practice began with 30 prospective track and field men reporting to the new head track coach Elmer Menage.

"Looking over the record book from last year it appears we could have a good team, but since I'm new here I won't really know until we get outside," Menage reported.

Helping the Knights this season will be the return of 9 letter-men from last year's squad.

Knights Face SCI And Coe

This year the Knight's track season will start earlier than previous years; they face State College of Iowa and Coe College in a triangular confrontation Feb. 9. Menage favored SCI to win the meet going away.

Menage reported an interesting sidelight on the meet. It will be the first time he will compete against his former college track coach, Jack Jennett of SCI. "Of course that was about forty pounds ago," Menage added.

SCI has the extra advantage of starting practice immediately after semester break.

The Knights will again face Coe on the boards in Cedar Rapids on Feb. 28.

Wartburg Lacks Facilities

"We have limited facilities, but most of the boys are working pretty hard," Menage said.

SCI has allowed the Knights to practice on their indoor track as they have the past few years. Actually many have been forced to run outside in the snow to get in enough practice. Menage warned that the entire team may not be in the best of shape when they move outside.

In the outdoor season Luther is picked to retain the Iowa Conference crown for another year. Wartburg and Central must be listed as possible contenders for the title.

"I just have to feel my way around for a couple of weeks," Menage commented on his problems as a new coach evaluating his prospects. "I think we will have one or two good men in each event, but we won't have much depth after that."

I-M Basketball Season Starts With M-M Win

Gary Bergstrom's 18 points were more than the entire Clinton Ground team could muster as Married-Men picked up an easy win 67-17.

In other first night competition Ketha defeated Alpha-Beta, 54-36, and Cotta fell before the Faculty 65 - 44. James Lenguardoro and John Tuecke led the victors with 17 and 16 points respectively, Jim Fliehler's 15 was high for Cotta.

Off-Campus, led by Ken Wessel's 20 points, got by Clinton I 46-42. Steve Wershay had 15 points for the losers. Grossmann Basement held out over Grossmann II for a 37-36 win.

Bill Harken was high for the losers with 13 points. Several missed free throws by Second Floor's Huey Johannsen gave Grossman Basement its margin of victory.

Grossmann III came from behind to defeat North Hall II 51-42. Lynn Zellers had 16 to lead the losers. Don Butcher had 12 for the winning squad.

Wartburg Grapplers Tie Meet With Undefeated Dubuque Team

Wartburg grapplers gained a 14 - 14 tie in their Jan. 28 meet with the previously undefeated Dubuque University team.

had a really well balanced team," Johansen said summing up the meet.

Tonight the Knights journey to LeMars for a dual meet with Westmar. Westmar has remained undefeated in the last three years piling up 25 victories by mid-January.

"We know they're good; they beat Drake 41-5," Jo added.

The last time the Knights met Westmar, in 1963, Wartburg lost 16 - 15. Some of the Westmar wrestlers are hold-overs from that team.

Coach Johansen's first comment was: "I knew they would be tough. We would have had to pin someone to win." Jo added, "I was satisfied with the draw."

Probably the most exciting match was furnished as freshman Dean Knight took on Bob Glenn, who took the third place in the conference meet last year.

Coach Surprised

Johansen said that he was pleasantly surprised that Knight could hold his share of the riding time leading to the tie.

What Jo termed the pivotal match was at 160. Larry Snitker, who held a substantial height advantage, was knocked out when his head struck the mat on a take-down. "It was a wonder he wasn't pinned after that," Johansen said.

Wartburg was behind 9 - 0 early in the contest, but many of the early matches were close enough that any one of them could have made the difference.

"All the boys wrestled up to their capability, but Dubuque

Winona State Tops Squires After 'Best Game' At Coe

By ED ROACH

Wartburg's freshman basketball team fell victim to the Winona State Frosh Tuesday night 73-63, as the Squires fell to their blackest depths in the second half.

Freshman coach John Kurtt didn't even want to talk about his team's defeat but finally admitted, "This is typical of freshmen, they're up for one game and down for the next."

The up game for the frosh was with the Coe College freshmen Jan. 26. The Squires rollicked over the Cedar Rapids quintet, 84-63.

Coe Is 'Best Game'

Kurtt called it "the best game we've played this year." No wonder Kurtt was ecstatic, five of his cagers were in double figures, and Alan Alcock turned in his finest performance of the year.

Coming back to reality, Kurtt commended that the freshmen's rebounding was far from outstanding.

Alcock had played as a forward in his high school career and had a problem shifting to the guard position. Now Kurtt is gradually shifting Cliff Cornelius, the Squires' leading rebounder, to guard.

Thirteen players remain on the freshman squad which has suffered from the normal attrition over the season.

Senate Leads Action

Bill Hamm, Student Body President, and Student Senate lead the activities of the Student Body. They have instituted many new ideas and changes in their actions this last semester.

Batman Is Here, But . . . Is It Super-Hero Trend?

(ACP)--Look. It's a bird. It's a plane. It's . . . no, Batman and Robin are trying to park their Batmobile.

Yes, with a pop, biff, crunch and zip, the comic strip heroes Batman and Robin have come to the University of Minnesota campus, says the Minnesota Daily. A fan club has been formed, an intramural team is named after them, and students adjust their evening schedules so they can watch the new television show.

Territorial Hall has organized the first University Batman fan club. The club with about 50 members plans to distribute membership cards and Bat insignias.

Athletics Affected

The craze has also affected athletics. The Sigma Alpha Epsilon intramural basketball team is called the Batmen, who will appear in masks, capes and shirts with Bat insignias at a game Thursday night. Team Captain Gordon Campbell said team members have a few "Bat-tricks" up their sleeves which they hope will completely undermine the morale of the opposition.

Student response to the new series featuring the heroic adventures of the two defenders of law and justice varies from "ish" and "juvenile" to the more-frequently heard comments of "it's great pop art," "marvelous, just like the comic books," "wild" and "better than Thunderball."

On at least one occasion the TV room in Territorial Hall, men's dormitory, was so crammed with Batman fans that latecomers had to go to another dormitory to watch.

Theater Gets In Act

The Varsity Theater in Dinkytown recently featured a four and a half hour "Evening with Batman and Robin" which theater officials said was extremely popular and attracted many cheering and booing students. Theater manager said the serials were "so naive and corny that students couldn't help but laugh."

Why is Batman so popular? Scott McNall, assistant sociology professor, said there are several reasons: The show is "camp," the plot is completely unpredictable and the program venerates the irrational and the absurd.

It's Ugly, But 'In'

"Camp" is something nostalgic or so ugly that it is "in," McNall said. "Batman fits the criterion in that it calls forth visions of old gangster movies, comic books and a little bit of everyone's childhood--a childhood in which one wished himself into the role of Superman, Tarzan or any large-muscled hero so that he could either fly away from his parents, escape boredom, win the love of the girl down the block by performing fantastic deeds or beat up the big kid who had been picking on him."

Walter Gerson, assistant sociology professor who has made a study of the American comic book, reports that there is a "trend in our society to the su-

Radio Voice Of Wartburg Goes Cool In Headquarter Decorating

By LINDA STULL

A visitor to the once shabby headquarters of the campus radio station has a surprise in store for him these days. KWAR-FM, the 89.1 voice of Wartburg College, has gone cool.

Paneled walls, carpeting in the studios, acoustical tiling, new furniture and a few needed touches of paint have turned the former radio shack into a show-place.

"In addition to the obvious fact that the place looks better," said station manager Keith Henrichs, "the remodeling has practical aspects. The carpeting and acoustical tile are designed to better the technical aspects of broadcasting at KWAR."

Remodelling Planned

Remodeling of KWAR's physical facilities has been in the planning stages for some time. Studio construction and engineering features have undergone constant improvement over the past few years.

The actual face-lifting that has just been completed is a culmination of past and present efforts.

"You might call this a two point program," said Henrichs.

"It includes improving the programming quality as well as the facilities. There will be more emphasis on solid educational programming, largely by our own personnel, but also through programs we receive from larger universities."

Personnel Number 45

KWAR's personnel list boasts some forty-five staff members. Half of these, according to Henrichs, are heard on the air and the other half work behind the scenes preparing shows for airing and helping with the engineering.

Executive staff members include senior Bill Glitz, news and special events; junior Walt Siegmann, programming supervisor; sophomore Ruth Tillmanns, continuity director.

Some changes have been made in KWAR's programming schedule this semester, according to Henrichs. "Spectrum" formerly an hour-long week-night program of music, news and interviews has been switched to a three-hour Sunday evening show.

Format Remains

"The basic format of the show will remain the same," he said, "but I think the general format will be more appealing to the listening audience." To compensate for this change, the other week-night programs will be lengthened.

"Showcase of the Masters," a Sunday afternoon show, will be expanded this semester to include drama as well as classical music. Plans call for presenting some Arthur Miller plays as well as works from Shakespeare and other famous playwrights.

A new Saturday afternoon show, "The Listener Speaks," will be devoted to questions and comments from listeners who call in about anything they wish to discuss.

Guide To Appear

"A program guide, with detailed program changes and information on programs, should appear next week," said Henrichs. And The Page, the news sheet put out by KWAR and the Student Senate, will be appearing as soon as more forms are ready for distribution."

The new look at KWAR goes beyond the remodeling. The emphasis on quality in programming and the constant efforts of its staff in this area are making the station an increasingly louder voice of the college on the campus and in the community.

Pat Hanson looks on as Keith Henrichs, KWAR-FM station manager, checks over the programming schedule.

The Somewhat Straight Stuff They walk softly

By L. ALBERT SAGERT

An irony of national and world politics is that the overt concern and activity aroused by public reaction to significant situations are often the least important factors in determining the ultimate outcome of those situations. Likewise the real factors involved in the outcome are generally unknown to the public but take on considerable importance if they become known.

Sagert

For instance, there are the factors which will come out if the recent Ben Barka incident is ever cleared up in France. This incident by members of a group of gangsters and thugs working in cohorts with Parisian police officers and the government espionage agency, the SDECE.

The important point is that this same group of underworld figures, the Barbouzes, also worked for the SDECE in 1958 and eliminated some members of French ultra-right political factions at its request, thus helping De Gaulle win the national election.

Although the Ben Barka affair happened in October, it was rushed up due to the election in December. Now, if the principal figures in the affair are ever brought to trial, the exposure of the activities of the Barbouzes will be a great embarrassment, if not worse, for De Gaulle.

In another instance, when Hitler was preparing to take over the German political scene, there was a partial cleansing of the ranks of the old storm troopers to rid the Nazi party of perverts, former criminals, and possible opposition.

This was done rather quietly, but combined with Hitler's influence on the Hindenburgs, which was also not popularly known then, it had more effect on subsequent events than did the overt activities and feelings of the German people at that time.

On the home front, the Republican nomination of dark-horse Warren Harding in 1920 was a fairly quiet affair carried on in a smoke-filled room away from the din of the convention floor where other strong candidates had failed. Yet, this first action was the more significant for the Republican party in the years to follow.

More recently there is the still muddled Bobby Baker doings which, although unclear, seem to have had a certain effect upon U. S. Senators, above and beyond the effect normally produced by one Senator upon another on the floor of the Senate chamber.

And now there is Vietnam. It is unwise of us to think that, because we read the paper, watch the news, know someone who has been in Vietnam and listen to "informed speakers," we know what is going on concerning Vietnam.

This is an election year and Vietnam is becoming a political soccer ball. One suspects, therefore, that there is going to be a good deal of behind-the-scenes pressure plays aimed at reaching some better state of affairs in Vietnam in order to improve LBJ's image.

Thus, one should not be surprised if this issue follows the suit of other significant situations and an agreement is reached between two men at a small unobserved table somewhere between here and the seventeenth parallel.

Dr. Waltmann Is Paper Co-author

Dr. William L. Waltmann, Mathematics Department, is co-author of a paper appearing in the December issue of "Journal of the Society for Industrial and Applied Mathematics." The title of his paper is "T-Algorithm for Tridiagonalization."

James Bond Replaces Pepsi Generation Era

8 — The Wartburg Trumpet — Waverly, Iowa

Feb. 5, 1966

(ACP) -- With the coming of James Bond, the Pepsi generation seems to have changed to the Bond era, says the "South Colorado," Adams State College, Alamosa, Colo. Not only has the Byronic James Bond become a hero but also an idol of imitation. The colognes and the after-shave lotions depict the piercing eyes of Bond 007. From sweat shirts to cigaret lighters to pistols and deodorants . . . licensed to kill women.

With the coming of the motion picture "Dr. No," a bold venture, Bond was raved about and the actor, as the image of James Bond, became a celebrity. Now one looks forward to the next Bond episode. Now to go behind the scenes to examine the genius of two men, the writer Ian Fleming and the actor Sean Connery.

Fleming Loves Thrills

Fleming was a wartime assistant to the director of Naval Intelligence in Britain. A lover of adventure and thrills, he was a product of Eaton and Sandhurst (the British parallel of West Point) and for a time a reporter, editor, columnist and finally author. He liked the excitement and novel adventure of his job as a Reuters correspondent in Russia. As to the origin of James Bond, Fleming said there "was such a character" in the British Secret Service, but under a different name. He wanted a dull-sounding name, so he chose that of a former ornithologist, James Bond.

He wrote about 10 Bond novels; four of them--"Dr. No," "From Russia With Love," "Goldfinger" and "Thunderball"--were made into movies. Fleming himself had a spy-like background and wrote with precise detail. He has been criticized for overdoing sex and violence in these novels, but that is the world of the secret agent--exotic living and quick thinking.

Connery Plays Bond

Sean Connery was surprised when called upon to become James Bond in "Dr. No." The Scottish-born actor was the son of a mill worker. He had planned to become a professional football player, but instead diverted his energy toward acting. Like many British actors, he started his career acting in Shakespearean plays. Connery considers the Bond image a burden but "one just has to learn to live with it." In real life, he is not the swash-buckling, debonair James Bond.

Bond is a dedicated man. All he does, in pleasure or pain, is for "King and country." Women and sex are but a part of his duty and assignments. Women are infatuated by his aloof attitude. He is a personification of the raw-masculine man, cruel and ruthless, if need be. He is tender only when extracting information from a cooing female victim.

Extravagance Essential

"Thunderball," the latest Bond episode, set in the beauty of the Bahamas, depicts nocturnal delights of scanty-clad nymphs, added to a huge arsenal of marine warfare. Lavish extravagance is essential in Bond movies. This has been criticized as being "too far out," but Sean Connery defended it by saying, "It is all a device to remove time."

James Bond has a caliber of his own, a taste different from all other spies and secret agents. The extravagance and preciseness hold him high above the rest of the crowded spy era.

February is well-known for its great men. George Washington, "The Father of our Country," was born on Feb. 22, 1732 and Abraham Lincoln was born Feb. 12, 1809. His Gettysburg Address marks the high point of American eloquence.
